

Critical acclaim for Presumed Innocent

*"Spellbinding. The suspense is relentless...
The work of a profoundly gifted writer."*

— The New York Times

"After two days of non-stop reading I put down Scott Turow's novel feeling drained, exhilarated and sorry it was over. Presumed Innocent is one of the most enthralling novels I have read in a long, long time. Turow has created a world that makes everyday reality feel naive and mundane."

— Author Pat Conroy

"No one writes better mystery suspense novels than Scott Turow."

— Los Angeles Times

"Turow's ability to forge the reader's identification with the protagonist, his insightful characterizations, and the overwhelming sense he conveys of being present in the courtroom are his most brilliant and satisfying contributions to what [has] become a literary crime classic."

— Publishers Weekly

EVERYONE'S READING...
Presumed Innocent
February 15 — April 28, 2010

PROGRAM GUIDE

“I want to thank everybody who’s participating in the 2010 Everyone’s Reading event. Presumed Innocent was the first novel I published (although hardly the first one I wrote). Its success shocked me and permanently altered my life. But the book arose from much of the turmoil I felt as a young lawyer, trying to make sense of a life so divided by my loyalty to my young family and a prosecutor’s consuming duty to do right. I have been living with the novel again for much of the last five years, since I have just finished a sequel, Innocent, about Rusty Sabich twenty-one years later. I imagine I’ll talk a bit about the new book and the old one when I get to Michigan.”

— Scott Turow

What is Everyone’s Reading?

Everyone’s Reading is a community wide reading program sponsored by Metro Detroit public libraries in Oakland and Wayne counties. Now in its ninth year, Everyone’s Reading promotes community dialogue through the shared experience of reading and discussing the same book. Additional programming, related to issues and topics in the selected book, is offered to enhance the reading experience.

This year’s Everyone’s Reading selection is Presumed Innocent by Scott Turow.

How to get involved

Check out Presumed Innocent from a participating library (see a list on page 5).

Discuss the book and participate in the various programs. Use the Reader’s Guide to lead your own book discussion group or attend one of the special Everyone’s Reading events listed in this program brochure and at www.everyonesreading.info.

Hear Scott Turow at one of the author appearances (see page 4 for details).

About the Author

Scott Turow is a practicing attorney and the author of seven best-selling novels, beginning with Presumed Innocent. As an attorney, both for the U.S. Attorney's office in Chicago and in private practice, Turow has had intimate experiences with the criminal justice system and capital punishment. Turow served on the Illinois Commission on Capital Punishment. He wrote about his journey from a self-described "death penalty agnostic" to becoming actively opposed to the death penalty in Ultimate Punishment: A Lawyer's Reflections on Dealing with the Death Penalty.

Turow has contributed essays and op-ed pieces to The New York Times, Washington Post, Vanity Fair, The New Yorker, Playboy and The Atlantic. His first book, One L: the Turbulent True Story of a First Year at Harvard Law School is a virtual bible for prospective law students. In 2003, he won the Heartland Prize for Reversible Errors and in 2004 received the Robert F. Kennedy Book Award for Ultimate Punishment. His books have been translated into more than two dozen languages and sold more than 25 million copies. Presumed Innocent was adapted into a full-length film.

Turow is a partner at Sonnenschein Nath & Rosenthal in Chicago and concentrates on white collar criminal defense. He devotes significant time to pro bono work, including a 1995 case that resulted in the release of Alejandro Hernandez who had spent 12 years in prison, including five on death row, for a murder he did not commit.

Turow was born in Chicago in 1949 and lives in a Chicago suburb.

Wrongful conviction, a theme in Presumed Innocent, is a focus of the Innocence Project, a national litigation and public policy organization. Founded in 1992, the Innocence Project works to exonerate wrongfully convicted people through DNA testing and to reform the justice system. To date, 245 people in the U.S. have been exonerated by DNA testing, including 17 who served time on death row.

Almost every state has an Innocence Project office, including Michigan's Thomas M. Cooley Innocence Project in Lansing and the Michigan Innocence Clinic in Ann Arbor. For more information, go to www.innocenceproject.org or attend one of the Everyone's Reading programs about the Innocence Project.

Meet the Author

You are invited to hear Scott Turow speak about his life and experience writing Presumed Innocent. Copies of the book will be available for purchase and signing, courtesy of the Book Beat bookstore.

Due to popular demand, a ticket will be required for the author appearances. Tickets are free but limited. Contact your local participating library for more information and ticket availability.
